

HOLD DYE BAN BEYOND PEACE

House and Senate Vote War Restriction on German Imports to Continue.

To safeguard the American dye industry, built up under the necessity of war, from complete destruction by an influx of German dyes when peace is proclaimed, the Senate and House yesterday passed an emergency resolution, which in effect places an absolute embargo on the importation of dyestuffs and color-fast products until January 15. The resolution continues for that period the War Trade Board's restrictions on these commodities.

The measure was called up in both houses by unanimous consent and disposed of with but little discussion. Such action was made necessary, it was explained, by reason of the fact that the War Trade Board's authority to handle the situation automatically expires with the proclamation of peace.

The House several weeks ago passed a bill designed to keep out the German dye products, but consideration of the peace treaty has prevented consideration of the measure in the upper branch. It is believed, however, that by January 15 this will have become a law.

Germany has a tremendous quantity of dyes ready for shipment to all parts of the world the minute the embargo is lifted. The dyeing industry in this country, which is now struggling to its feet, but which, with proper protection, should be a formidable competitor in years to come.

MUNICIPAL PIGS ARE ROOTING FOR CITY'S NEW WATER SYSTEM

This little pig-ture shows how the city of San Diego, California, is helping to pay the cost of constructing the big Otay dam, the basis of its future water system. It's a hogish tale. The construction gang working on the dam eats 19,500 meals a month. Accordingly there is considerable garbage, and garbage, to the logical mind of hydraulic Engineer H. N. Savage, suggested hogs. Savage took some city funds and bought a supply of municipal shoats. Then he acted as a wise chaperon should, and introduced the shoats to the garbage-pile at the dam. The shoats—now bulky porkers—saw the point immediately, and fell to work turning garbage into bacon. This was in September of last year. Now Savage reports that the sale of pork, in twelve months, has paid the entire cost of running the mess-house at the camp, and in addition has given the city a profit of $1,177.08.

OPERATOR SCORES MINERS' ATTITUDE. St. Louis, Mo., Nov. 18.—A "premium has been placed upon inefficiency" by radical officials and business agents, who have brushed aside honest efforts at collective bargaining, and are now governing the miners "autocratically," according to a statement sent from Washington by President Harry N. Taylor, of the National Coal Association. The message read today before the American Mining Congress here, said in part: "No more vicious attempt at deliberate profiteering could be forced upon the public than the demand made by radical officials of the United Mine Workers for an increase of 60 per cent on the present eight-hour scale—and then proposing to work only a six-hour day for five days a week for this increased daily rate. "Six hours, bank to bank, means five hours actual work; no double shift to be allowed, with time and a half for overtime and double time for holidays and Sundays. Their proposition makes Saturday a holiday, or double time."
